

#18feb - Hands off our right to strike

The 18 February global day of action to support the right to strike has proven to be a huge success, with more than 100 activities around the world reported to the ITUC. Unions in over 60 countries took action, with support in many cases from politicians, human rights organisations and community groups.

Department of Labor and Employment
Statement of Secretary Rosalinda Dimapilis-Baldoz
20 February 2015

On the freedom of association and the right to strike

"On the part of the Department of Labor and Employment, I declare that the Philippines adheres to the principle that the right to strike is one of the essential means through which workers and their organizations may promote and defend their economic and social interests.

"The right to strike, as an inseparable adjunct to freedom of association, or the right to self-organization, is a universally accepted principle.

"Also, as a member of the ILO and as signatory to ILO Conventions 87 and 98, or the Right to Organize and Collective Bargaining Convention, the Philippines recognizes that freedom of association and the right to strike are basic principles attached to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.
